

Milt Fischbein

Milt Fischbein is an independent jewellery artist and teacher. He discovered his love of working with precious metals about 25 years ago. Over the last few years, Milt has developed an interest in the art of filigree. He has expanded his skills in filigree design and fabrication by participating in workshops with a diverse range of well-known filigree artists.

Milt has been fine tuning ancient filigree techniques in his Calgary, Alberta studio, creating a body of contemporary silver and gold filigree jewellery. Milt is one of only a handful of metal artists in North America who focuses on the design and fabrication of filigree. Milt has been passing on his knowledge of filigree through workshops and lectures. He is a professional member of the Alberta Craft Council.

His works have been published in Edmonton's Where Magazine, Alberta Craft Magazine and in Victoria Lansford's 2019 Update of her Russian Filigree DVD. A write up on his studio was featured in the July 2017 issue of the MJSA Journal.
